CONTENTS

Johannes Döveling, Kennedy Gastorn and Ulrike Wanitzek
Preface............................................................................................................................ ix

Acknowledgments ................................................................................................... xvii

Kennedy Gastorn
Constitutional Reform Processes and Integration in East Africa:
Introduction .................................................................................................................. 1

Josaphat Laurean Kanywanyi
Open-ended Features in Constitutionalism and Cultural Attitudes in East Africa: Basis for Prevalence of Corruption, Poor Public Servant Responsibility, Accountability and Public Services
Delivery? ..................................................................................................................... 9

James Ogoola
Where Treaty Law Meets Constitutional Law:
National Constitutions in the Light of the EAC Treaty........................................ 49

Gamaliel Mgongo Fimbo
Principles and Practices of Management in the East African Community: Best Practices for a Modern Judiciary.............................................. 65

Damian Z. Lubuva
The Independence of the National Electoral Commission of Tanzania as an Oversight Constitutional Organ..................................................... 89

Gamaliel Mgongo Fimbo
The National Electoral Commission of Tanzania in Support of Constitutional Democracy: A Comment ............................................................. 105

Bonaventure Rutinwa
Constitutionalising Citizenship in Tanzania: Lessons from Other
East African Jurisdictions .................................................................................. 117
Hamudi Ismail Majamba
Environmental Protection within the Framework of the East African Community: Lessons for Constitutional Reform in Tanzania

Christian Roschmann, Peter Wendoh and Steve Ogolla
Kenya’s Constitutional Review Experience and Lessons to Be Learned for the Constitution-making Process in Tanzania

University of Dar es Salaam School of Law
Proposals Submitted to the Constitutional Review Commission of Tanzania: Executive Summary

About the Authors and Editors